Proposed Boundary Changes

The red lines in the above map indicate the proposed boundary changes in Lincoln, Travis and Sam Houston Elementary schools. The western edge of the Lincoln district will be moved east from 11th street to HWY 75. That area will then belong to Travis. The northern edge of the Travis district will be moved south from the Cotton Belt railroad to 10th Ave., giving that area to the Sam Houston district. The plan was approved on first reading by the Corsicana School Board during a called meeting Wednesday and is part of a four-part plan to be submitted to the federal Housing, Education and Welfare agency of the federal government.

Decision of the Board

Hicks, Washington Swap School Posts

By NELL FISCHER
Sun Staff Writer

The reassignment of Louis Hicks, Lincoln elementary school principal, as assistant principal at Corsicana High School was confirmed at an executive session of a called school board meeting Wednesday. He will replace E. L. Washington, who will assume duties as principal at Lincoln.

Both men have held their former positions for one year.

Hicks will work with David Ingram, new head principal at the school and Mark Culwell, who the board officially appointed as the other assistant principal during the regular session of the meeting.

Culwell is a graduate of A&I University and received his masters degree at Abilene Christian College. He was head coach at CHS from 1958 to 1960 and then went into private business, returning last year as assistant coach at the high school.

Also in the executive meeting, a four-part plan was submitted by school district superintendent Joe Seale for submission as a desegregation plan for the federal Housing, Education and Welfare agency.

One part of the plan was approved on first reading on a separate basis during the regular session. It calls for district line changes between Lincoln, Travis and Houston elementary schools.

The changes came as a recommendation to Seale from Louis Hicks, Lincoln principal; Cecil Vickers, Sam Houston principal and Jake Allen, Travis principal.

The recommendation is a result of an over-crowded condition at Lincoln school and an estimated increase of student population in the district. Another reason for over-crowding, said Seale, was "claim jumpers," who gave false addresses or information so that their children may attend a different school district other than the one they should.

Lincoln has a capacity of 425, but had 540 students last year. Travis had 300 out of a 330 capacity and Sam Houston had 280 students out of a possible 425 capacity.

Under the plan, the western boundary line of Lincoln will be moved from 11th street to HWY 75, with the eastern edge of Travis moving to the highway. To take up the additional number of students that would crowd Travis, the northern boundary of that district will be moved from the Cotton Belt railroad to 10th Ave., giving that area to Sam Houston's district.

About 90 students will be involved in the changes, said Seale.

When asked by board members if this would change ratios of blacks to whites to help meet HEW's standards, Seale replied that it would change the ratio in Travis slightly, but not enough to meet requirements.

Board members took no action on the remaining three parts of the plan, which include central learning centers in each school, majority to minority transfers and crossing over teachers.

Under the CLC plan, each elementary school would have a center devoted to a special area of learning and would be complete.

The third part maintains that if a student is in the majority race in a school, he may obtain permission to attend a school where his race is in the minority and may receive free transportation if he lives more than two miles from that school.

The last part of the plan is designed to meet requirements of the Singleton case which states that the same ratio of minority teachers must be present in each school. Seale said this would be done through reassignments and employments.

The decision is expected to come during a meeting Monday at noon in the administration building. The board will also have a study session on the budget.

Second reading on the district changes will come at the Aug. 16 meeting.

Seale said that although a plan was to be in HEW's hands by Friday, he was asking for a postponement.

HOTCOG Proposal

City and County officials met with representatives of the Heart of Texas Council of Governments Tuesday evening to discuss the possibility of establishing a area communications network. Proposed Budget Up $154,441

A proposed budget of $2,242,202 that carries with it a 5 per cent across the board raise for municipal employes and comes within $369 of being "in balance" was presented by City Manager Bob Brockman to the City Commission meeting informally Tuesday night in a dinner work session at the Holiday Inn.

This compares to the current year's budget ending Sept. 30 of $2,087,761.

Manager Brockman reminded city officials that a budget is based on an educated guess as to what revenues and expenditures will be in the ensueing year. He said he had purposely been conservative in estimating anticipating revenues and had tried to estimate required expenditures as accurately and realisticaly as possible. He reasoned it was better if anticipated revenues at year's end were higher than had been projected than to come down to the wire and find themselves short of what had been expected, facing a deficit.

The new budget is based on the same tax rate of $1.25 per $100 and an estimated tax roll of $54,417,000 in assessed property valuations for 1971 at 91 per cent collection of all taxes due.

Pointing out that the city's Water Fund "owes" the General Fund about $31,000 now because water revenues for the past fiscal year hadn't been as high as anticipated and requirements had been up, Manager Brockman recommended the City Commission raise water rates by five centers per 1,000 gallons all the way through the graduated rate schedule. He estimated this will produce from $55,000 to $57,000 in additional water revenues, enabling the Water Fund to reimburse its debt to the General Fund and meet bonded indebtedness.

The budget as proposed, however, is not based on the recommended hike in water rates, he responded to inquiries.

Manager Brockman reviewed the tentative figures he had come up with after consultations with all department heads on their anticipated operating needs for the new fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

He pointed out that the budget anticipates $2,140,833 from "all sources", plus a carry-over of $101,000 for total resources available of $2,241,833 and total estimated operating and debt service requirements of $2,242,202. Requirements would exceed resources by $369.

The city manager said he was recommending $118,070 in total capital outlay from the General Fund and $18,100 from the Water Fund, or a total of $136,170 which he broke down by departments for their enlightening.

Manager Brockman submitted "penciled" work copies of the budget which broke down the total required expenditures for 1971-72 of $2,242,202 as follows: General Fund, $1,401,710; Water Fund, $302,720; debt requirements of Water Fund, $345,315; and debt requirements of General Fund, $192,457.

In response to questions from Mayor Sue Youngblood and the four Commissioners as he went over the budget, Manager Brockman said he had made allowances in the budget for $8,000 for Corsicana's pro rata share of costs of joining the Heart of Texas Council of Governments proposed law enforcement communications network system. (HOTCOG representatives met jointly with city and county officials also Tuesday night to outline details of the system.) He said further that the budget provides for two tax appraisers if the Commission adopts this recommendation received from its Board of Equalization.

Manager Brockman informed the city officials Corsicana had been asked for an appropriation of $10,000 by the Family Consultation Center, which he understood had requested a similar amount from the county for its next year's operation. While $10,000 was requested, he related the Center had indicated it would be pleased to even get a token allocation as evidence of city support of its program. He reminded city officials no provision had been made by him in the budget for an appropriation to the Family Consultation Center and "you'll need to consider that."

"I want a commitment out of the City Commission as to what you want to do," Manager Brockman said, adding he needed to know their wishes before he could proceed further with shaping up the budget for adoption in September.

Specifically, he asked two questions: "Are you satisfied with the 5 per cent salary increase, and are you satisfied with the proposed $136,170 in capital outlay?"

Indicating they weren't prepared to give an "on-the-spot" answer until they had time to digest the mass of figures, the Commission decided to hold a follow up budget work session immediately following adjournment of the regular Aug. 3 City Commission meeting.

Douglas Blasts Leader of NCAC

By RAY MAYO
Sun Staff Writer

According to County Judge Kenneth Douglas, "if a vote were held tomorrow, 95 per cent of the voting public in this county would vote to do away immediately with the Navarro County Action Program." That's the way Judge Douglas summed up his feelings concerning the recent resolution of the commissioner's court to withdraw the county's designation of NCAC as its educational and charitable projects agency for Navarro County.

Judge Douglas said "This court agrees that some of the programs now being performed by NCAC are worthwhile. One program primarily is the operation of child day care centers." However, he continued that the "operation of taxi service and bus service with government owned vehicles to me is not something that the federal government should be financing. Many of these automobiles are used on off-duty time, at least it appears so when the vehicles are operated after the office is closed," he added.

One specific example Judge Douglas pointed out was when an NCAC car was involved in an accident in Dallas transporting workers to jobs. "Several months ago, one of the government automobiles was used to transport some workers to Dallas at a time when many women personnel in Corsicana were commuting to Dallas to begin training for a local insurance company. This car was involved in an accident in Dallas. To me this is an unauthorized use of government equipment."

In recalling the beginning of the action program, Judge Douglas says "a nucleus of some 30 people worked diligently in soliciting people to attend a mass meeting in 1966. The purpose of the meeting was to determine if the county and county government felt it was something worthwhile. I always felt that it could succeed if it stayed out of politics."

Judge Douglas aimed most of his criticism at Jerome Vacek, head of the action committee, and not the committee itself. "Jerome may be one of the most capable directors in the state. I know that he is very knowledgable about the program and a hard worker. His only problem is that he has lost confidence in most of those in the county. It is my opinion that a new director if properly qualified might bring the program back into respect in the county."

Judge Douglas said the commissioners court has not taken any formal action asking for Vacek's resignation.

The thing that actually prompted the commissioners court proposal, said Judge Douglas, was "that Jerome and Ben Montoya of the regional OEO office had a written memorandum that concerned two items I felt were outside the scope of action work. One item was that there was some establishments in the county that still maintained separate facilities for blacks and whites. The second item was that the Kerens housing project was not in compliance with the civil rights act and immediate steps should be taken with HUD."

Judge Douglas continued that if the action committee "is to be an educational agency, how do these other projects come under the educational field? The administration in my opinion consistently engaged in voter registration at government expense," said Douglas. "Why would they engage in voter registration at government expense unless those concerned knew that they could have a block vote and vote the way it (NCAC) wanted it to vote," he added.

As to the future action of the commissioners court, Judge Douglas said the court is "taking a wait-and-see attitude at this time concerning the outcome of the OEO projects."

When contacted by the Daily Sun, Vacek said he had no comment concerning the charges made by Douglas.

Rains Continue in Golden Circle Area

A steady, soaking rain Wednesday finally pushed Corsicana ahead of the 1970 rainfall total by a scant .14 of an inch.

Corsicana and the immediately surrounding area recorded 1.19 inches for a year's total of 14.56 inches. The total at this time last year was 14.42.

Rain clouds dumped their largest amounts of moisture to the south and southeast of Corsicana. Mexia and Wortham reported over two inches Thursday morning with off-and-on showers still falling. Reports from Fairfield, to the east of Mexia, varied but were in the area of three inches of rain.

Elsewhere throughout the Golden Circle, showers were scattered but strong. Hubbard received 1.10 inches while nearby Dawson and Lake Navarro Mills registered .59 of an inch.

Ennis had an official total of .46 for the day.

To the east near Cedar Creek Lake, Malakoff and Trinidad reported over two inches to bring their year's total to 9.5, still 12 inches behind the annual average for the area.

According to the Associated Press a cool front which was nearly stalled along the Red River kept the rainfall spigots turned on over some waterlogged areas in Texas today.

Still more showers and thunderstorms were expected in nearly every section of the state, which less than a week ago still felt the effects of crippling drought in many localities.

The persistent downpours caused the National Weather Service to issue a series of warnings against possible flash floods Tuesday, some remaining in force past midnight. There was no further word, however, of any severe flooding.

In most cases, the worst conditions saw smaller streams rise out of banks to cover roads in low areas and underpasses, principally in North Central and Northeast Texas.

By this morning, most of the thundershowers were moving through areas from Central into East Texas, parts of far West Texas and the north part of the Texas Panhandle.

One of the latest flood warnings covered Hansford County in the Panhandle, where thunderstorms turned loose rain at the rate of one inch per hour during the night.

Similar alerts went up earlier for rains lasting several hours in Dallas, Tarrant, Collins, Kaufman, Van Zandt, Rockwell, Hunt and Rains counties.

Dallas, for example, measured 2.27 inches of rain Wednesday, with more than an inch falling within an hour. Water closed some streets for a time.

Even heavier downpours ranged through towns east of Dallas.

Graduation Ceremonies Set at TWQB School

By NELL FISCHER
Sun Staff Writer

A 16-week waste water orientation school for water and disposal plant operators in a 50-mile radius of Corsicana concludes Thursday at 1 p.m. with "graduation".

Of 36 who orginally started the course on April 12 at the National Guard Armory, 29 are expected to successfully complete the full course and graduate.

The school was conducted free of charge by the Texas Water Quailty Board utilizing instructors from Texas A&M University's engineering extension service and other instructors recruited by A&M.

Willard Davis, Corsicana's water and sewer superintendent, coordinated local arrangements for the school which has met twice weekly since April 12 at the Armory where the graduation program concludes the school Thursday.

State Rep. Jack Hawkins of Groesbeck, who keynoted the opening session, will join representatives from the Texas Water Quality Board, A&M engineering extension service and city officials at the ceremonies closing out the training school staged by the state to increase the proficiency of plant personnel in the treating of waste water to reduce overall stream pollution.

Davis said Wednesday he expects Sam Slaughter from the Water Quality Board and Charles Wall of A&M who largely set up the 160-hour training program to be among those in attendance.

X-ray Unit To Arrive Here Aug. 4

Many people get the first indication they need to see their family physician about a respiratory condition from taking advantage of a free service when the Christmas Seal mobile X-ray unit visits. The next such visit to Corsicana by the mobile unit will be Aug. 4 and 5.

When the unit last visited Corsicana, 824 chest X-rays were taken. From these X-rays, the Dallas Area TB Association, referred nine tuberculosis suspects to either their private physician or the health department.

In addition, 28 respiratory disease suspects and 12 cardiac suspects were referred to their physicians for further study.

Financed by contributions to the Christmas Seals campaign, the Association offers these free chest X-rays on a regular basis in the 10-county area served, including Navarro county.

The mobile unit will be located on its return visit on the parking lot of the Navarro Mall Shopping Center. On Wednesday, Aug. 4, its hours will be from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and from 2 to 5 p.m. On Thursday, Aug. 5, the unit will be open from 12 noon to 3 p.m. and from 4 to 7 p.m.

Police Probe Thefts Here

Merchandise estimated at $250 in value was reported by operators of Ray's Sales Store, 219 N. Beaton St., to have been taken in an overnight burglary investigated Thursday by Corsicana police.

Asst. Chief Hightower was advised the loss involved shirts, pants and other articles of clothing.

Entry had been gained by kicking in a glass double door at the front after unsuccessful attempts to force an alley door, Hightower related.

Theft of six wheels with new tires taken off three trucks parked at R. J. "Red" Andrews Truck lines on N. Hwy 75 was investigated early Thursday by Detective Warren.

The police detective said fresh tracks in the mud at the scene indicated the thieves removed the wheels from the trucks, then rolled them to their own vehicle, probably a ¾-ton pickup from the tire prints, and drove off in a northerly direction.

Andrews valued the wheels and new tires at $900.

Early Wednesday afternoon, Capt. Gray was dispatched to the VFW Hall, W. Hwy. 31, on a report from Post Commander Cecil Andrews a burglary had taken place since the Hall closed late Tuesday night.

Nothing was missed from the premises, but considerable damage was done to outside and inside doors, police said.

Ada P. Ellis notified police Wednesday at 11:30 p.m. of the theft of her 1960 Chevrolet from the 200 block of S. Kelly St. in southeast Corsicana. No recovery had been made at press time.

'Wild Rovers' Is Good Conglomerate

By SAM PENDERGRAST
Editor of The Sun

This reviewer has always had a suspicion that many movies are built from the title up. Some idea man for a studio comes up with a provocative phrase, and they manufacture a story around it. Or that producers often take a successful movie, change its costumes or its accent, and hope for a coattail smash. ("Why not film 'Hamlet' as a western or the book of Job as a hip flick?")

"The Wild Rovers", showing at the Palace through Saturday, could have been born either way, both, or neither, but—whatever pattern was used—they've come up with a surprisingly good mishmash of gutsy western, maudlin sentiment, and occasional moment of art and drama.

The title, for instance, suggests—perhaps tortuously, but it works—two successful sleepers, "The Wild Bunch" and that marvelous William Faulkner idyll, "The Reivers"; "The Wild Rovers" has a touch of each—the blood and slopjar humor of the former and the delightful moral myopia of the latter.

But the second theory of cinematic origins is served very well by the realization that the movie has more than a little dash of the situation of another unexpected smash, the excellent ethical allegory and controversial "X"-rated Oscar winner, "Midnight Cowboy".

William Holden is fine in one of his first "old man" roles; Ryan ("Love Story" and "Peyton Place") O'Neal is unsurprisingly effective as a puerile cowboy with a giddy charm and an increasingly stiff upper lip; Karl Malden remains one of the best pseudo-straight secondary sufferers in the business; and Joe Don Baker of Groesbeck indicates acting ability beyond the demands of his role as the ambivalent older brother of a ranch family.

Holden and O'Neal tire of being an old cowhand and a young cowhand, rob a bank, and flee for a life of ease in Mexico. Baker and his brother chase them to retrieve their former ranch's good name. But vengeance is thwarted by a mortal wound acquired in a happenstance incident in what is suggested as an Arizona frontier brothel.

But, despite the western cliches that riddle the scenario, there are moments of real drama, one unusually imaginative and one bloody barroom brawl, and half a dozen tableaux of visual art, including a shadow-show funeral against a prairie sundown and a slow motion horse-breaking sequence in the snow of almost balletic quality.

But, perhaps most appealing of all, there is some two hours of excruciating color photography of rugged, exciting western geography in myriad moods.

AT THE NAVARRO DRIVE-IN through Saturday will be "El Dorado" with (who else?) John Wayne on a double bill with Gregory Peck, Tuesday Weld and Estelle Parsons in what sounds like a hard-boiled lawman film called "I Walk the Line".

Aunt Louise

Dear Aunt Louise, "Hi! Guess what? We are hot! We came to Amarillo for three reasons, one to look after our property, two, to go to the City of Amarillo Barbecue, and three, but not least, to get my birthday present. Guess what it is? A beautiful six month old Basenji female pup. Our friends, The McAnally's gave me this pup and she raises them. She has the only tri-colored one raised in this country. You see these dogs are the barkless kind. They yodel and are African hunting dogs and quite expensive. My female is registered and the fore-father and mother have won quite a few awards and ribbons. The Basenji owned by Mrs. Mavis McAnally of Perryton and shown by Elizabeth Goldsmith won the Best of the Breed Ribbon at the Amarillo Kennel Club show recently. Say, read about the big Whoppper you caught. Instead of me coming to get you to go fishing how about you coming and getting me? I can't catch anything large enough to eat. Papa was lucky as he caught one bass that weighed three pounds. Bye for now, we will be back in Corsicana by Thursday." signed, All our love, Mack and Elizabeth Mix and all the Little Mixes.

Thanks for the nice letter. If Amarillo was hot guess you came back home to a little cooler weather, at least for a few hours. There was a picture of a Basenji in my Encyclopedia. They really look beautiful. I hope you enjoy yours very much.

Dear Aunt Louise, "This little hint is a tip for wives who don't like to get up in the mornings and fix their husbands a sack lunch. Prepare it the night before! Put meat and mustard, mayonaise, etc., on the bread and stick it in the freezer. Wrap the lettuce and tomatoes (sliced) and put them in a paper sack in the refrigerator along with potato chips, pickles, cake or cookies or whatever else he likes. When your husband gets up the next morning all he has to do is to reach in the refrigerator and get the sack, reach in the freezer and stuff in the sandwich. By the time he is ready to eat, the sandwich will have thawed and it will be as fresh as if it had just been made." signed, A Reader.

Thanks for writing and am sure the readers will appreciate the tip. You must have an exceptionally thoughtful husband. My thought was, what in the world does he have for breakfast? Smile.

Pat's wife, Sharon, sent me the following, being the thoughtful person that she is. She said she thought I'd like it and would want to share it with you readers. It is one of her favorites.

Thoughts on Loneliness
By Stephen Vizinczew

—When you're in fever, only your own body is burning, and when you're wounded, you bleed by yourself. EACH MAN IS ALONE INSIDE HIS SKIN, THAT FOOLPROOF INSULATOR THAT SEPARATES EVEN TWINS AND LOVERS.

—To be free, to get away, is our deepest desire—until we get so far that we cannot reach out to anyone.

—There is a NEW loneliness in the modern world - THE SOLITUDE OF SPEED. We PASS BY one another on the throughways of our new freedoms.

Do you have a favorite quote, been on vacation, any news 'a tall? How about wiriting to your Aunt Louise?

See you in next Thursday's Daily Sun.

Rudy Palmeri (Big Four Shoe Store), wife Ruth Ann, and sons Joe, (Jo-Jo) and Donny Albert, (Bo-Bo) have returned home from a two week vacation on the coast.

They spent their nights in Galveston but toured up and down the coast for over forty miles. Rudy said they were very lucky as the Gulf waters were so clear and the beaches as clean as he'd ever seen it. They had fun swimming, surfing and fishing.

On Sunday July 25th he said the estimated tourist crowd was 13,000. Just for the heck of it Rudy went out on a shrimp boat with it's crew and their haul for the day was over four hundred pounds of shrimp.

The Palmeri's biggest catch of fish was caught near Lake Charles, Louisiana. They caught both speckled trout and red snapper.

In Galveston they visited the docks where they saw some very large merchant ships. They now have a new type tug boat or boats that literally picks them up and raises the ship out of the water when it docks. Sure sounds like the whole family had a fun vacation.

Mrs. H. N. "Merle" Coker (P&S Pharmacy), her husband, Pete, are back on their jobs after vacationing in Arkansas and Missouri. They rode the "Sammy Lane" Pirate Cruise boat which is more than just a ride. It is one hour of good entertainment—you hear tall tales of the hills, drift by old Indian Campgrounds, Photogenic bluffs, meet the Pirate of Taneycomo, laugh, relax and take pictures.

They visited Silver Dollar City, "Capitol of the Ozarks," a remarkable landmark of Ozark crafts and entertainment. Merle said the craftsmen said they just didn't manufacture merchandise—they created keepsakes.

When the Cokers visited Roaring River they both wished for yours truly as it is a fisherman's heaven. It is one of the three state trout parks. The hatchery is run by the Missouri Conservation Commission which is responsible for the trout breeding and stocking of the spring. There is a limit on the trout you can keep—I'm afraid I resent that. Smile!

Joe Seale, Superintendent of Schools was a visitor at the plant Wednesday morning and he stopped by my desk and said if I didn't start my column with a fish story he was disappointed. Glad to oblige you this week. Wish the readers would send in a WHOPPER story.

Dr. Will Miller and wife, Margaret are eagerly awaiting the arrival of their son, Tom, his wife and children, Ed, Michelle, and Holden who live in Raleigh, North Carolina. They plan an extended visit. Ed, the youngest child always asks "Papa" Miller to read the paper to him. "Papa" Miller is a good reader. He and "Mamma" Miller are high on many people's favorite people list. We welcome the Tom Miller family to Corsicana and may your stay be a pleasant one.

Mrs. Eunace Collins, manager, Dorothy Mullenix, clerk, at the G & G Thrift Store received a card from California. It read "Thank you for selling me the boots. I'm visiting my Aunt and Uncle in Houston trying to find a better job although I may have to go back to California. Good luck in the store sale." signed, Danny.

Eunace said, "Aunt Louise, I guess it was the advertising as we had the largest day Saturday, July 24th since the store opened."

I'll buy that but we'll thank Danny for the card, it could have brought luck. Pat's wife, Sharon, always wants to go to the G & G when they visit. It takes time to browse but you may find just exactly what you want for much less than you'd expected to pay.

Hope to hear from YOU. See you Sunday.

Penn State and Alabama have agreed to a six-game football series beginning in 1981.

Navarro Mills Gets 22,000 Stripe Bass

TYLER—An additional 22,000 striped bass have been released in Navarro Mills Reservoir near Corsicana, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fisheries biologists. The fingerlings were reared at the department's Tyler Fish Hatchery after being hatched by the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries earlier in the year.

The young stripers joined several hundred thousand striped bass fry and fingerlings released by the department in the 5,000-acre Navarro County reservoir during the last five years. Largest striped bass officially reported to date from Navarro Mills tipped the scales at four and a half pounds, with another at five and a half unofficially

The striped bass is a marine species being introduced into fresh waters of several states. In addition to being an excellent table fish, the striper is a real challenge to the angler. The freshwater striper record weight is 63 pounds.

An excellent predator, the striped bass feeds on large gizzard shad and other forage species which large mouth bass and white bass are unable to take. Control of these large forage species, which often upset the sport fishing qualities of a lake or reservoir, is an important aspect of the striped bass introduction in Texas waters.

Fishing methods normally used for white bass can be used in fishing for stripers in Texas lakes. Trolling with large spoons and shad-like lures is often effective. Heavy largemouth bass tackle with 20-30 pound monofilament is recommended.

South Vietnamese Open New Cambodian Front

SAIGON (AP) — Another 3,200 South Vietnamese troops joined massive sweep operations in eastern Cambodia today under an umbrella of U.S. helicopter gunships, jet fighterbombers and B52 stratofortresses.

The new drive was the third by Vietnamese troops in Cambodia in a week and the fifth this month. All are designed to push North Vietnamese forces back from the border to keep them from disrupting the South Vietnamese elections in late August and early October.

Associated Press correspondent George Esper reported from the newest Cambodian front that the South Vietnamese and their spearhead of 80 armored vehicles began moving north from Highway 1 between Svay Rieng and Prey Veng, about 25 miles inside Cambodia.

They encountered no enemy resistance initially, Esper said. But sharp fighting was reported on Tuesday about 25 miles to the northwest. South Vietnamese headquarters said ground forces and air strikes killed 35 North Vietnamese, while six Saigon troops were killed and 26 were wounded.

South Vietnamese helicopters lifted 1,600 troops to the area between Svay Rieng and Prey Veng for the new operation. The other 1,600 were already in Cambodia.

The U.S. Command confirmed that B52 strikes were flown in support of the sweep, in addition to helicopter gunship fighter-bomber operations.

The South Vietnamese began pre-election sweeps in Cambodia July 8 with a week-long, 3,000-man push in the Parrot's Beak area east of Svay Rieng.

A second sweep by 2,000 Rangers was launched July 19 across the border from South Vietnam's Chau Doc Province.

A third sweep was made by 10,000 infantrymen from July 21 to July 26 north of Highway 7 and adjacent to the area northeast of Saigon known as War Zone C.

Last Monday, 1,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen with another 1,000 in reserve began a fourth drive along Highway 7 south of Snuol. They are reported to have pushed to within four miles of that rubber plantation town from which South Vietnamese occupation troops were driven early in June after a five-day battle that cost them 600 casualties.

Student Says Tight Lip Needed in East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — When visiting East Germany, keep your mouth shut says an American student who spent 18 months in an East Berlin prison.

"If you spend 10 minutes in East Germany talking with anybody, the chances are you'll open yourself up to a charge of slandering the state," said Mark Huessy of Jericho, Vt., a 22-year-old junior at Pomona College, in Claremont, Calif.

"It can include anything from criticizing a policeman to saying the trains don't run on time—which they don't—because of poor planning.

"Everybody knows that a country like that has political laws, but you don't realize how they work until you are subjected to them."

The secret police arrested Huessy on Jan. 4, 1970 in an East Berlin subway station. Within a few hours he realized he and his contacts in the Communist capital had been under surveillance. Huessy, fluent in German, had spent several months in East Berlin talking to people about his two specialities—the late berthold Brecht, the renowned playwright, and anti-Nazi resistance.

"I can only assume they actually thought at first that I was a spy," he said, recalling he was investigated first on espionage charges. These were later reduced to charges of slandering the state and hostile agitation.

"Miscarriages of justice happen in any country, but the East Germans were dishonest about admitting they had made a mistake," Huessy said. "They arrested me on a false charge. Having established that it was false, they investigated me enough to prove to themselves I was guilty of a very minor and technical violation—slander."

The charge of hostile agitation was added because "they decided to make a serious crime of it," he claimed.

Huessy was convicted last Sept. 21 and sentenced to seven years in prison. This was reduced on appeal to five years. He was freed on probation July 16 and returned to West Berlin with the five other Americans then in East German captivity on various charges.

Huessy said he was accused at his trial of making 16 statements that were slanderous to the East German regime and designed to incite resistance to it.

Demand for Half Dollars Weak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 200 million 1971 Kennedy half dollars are gathering dust in government coffers, going largely unused for reasons the Treasury Department can't fully understand.

"I can't understand the population," said Mary T. Brooks, director of the U.S. Mint, shaking her head. "They're not using them."

The situation has reached the point Federal Reserve banks are calling commercial banks to spark demand, figuring if the public knows there are plenty of new half dollars, bearing the likeness of former President John F. Kennedy, demand will pick up.

"There are vending machines by the thousands sitting in warehouses," Mrs. Brooks said in an interview. "The owners are dying to use them if the banks would use the half dollars."

But commercial banks say they are not ordering the coins because the public demand is too weak.

"I can't understand it," she said. "The half dollar weighs exactly the same as two quarters and there would be less rattling in the pocket. They're much less trouble."

The 1964-69 Kennedy halves, which were part silver, never were in general circulation because the public stashed them away as collectors' items even though more than one billion were minted, she said.

Congress last year gave the Treasury authority to mint an unlimited number of the new coppy-nickel coins. But there was a full year, 1970, in which the public became unaccustomed to seeing the half dollar.

"If the country knew there were plenty of them around, they'd probably start hoarding them, too," Mrs. Brooks said.

But neither the part-silver nor the nickel-copper coin is worth much for collecting, she said, because of the large number minted and because the value of the silver in the older coins is less than the face value.

Mrs. Brooks said more than 300 million of the 1971 halves have been minted since April, with a little more than 100 million in circulation as the Mint rolls out more of them every day.

She said everywhere she goes, she asks businessmen if they have any Kennedy halves. "They tell me, 'Why, they're not making them any more.'

Sudan President Hangs Red Chief

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — The chief of Sudan's Communist party was hanged early today in the 14th execution since last week's unsuccessful attempt to depose President Jaafar el Numairi.

The government announced that Abdul Khalek Mahjoub, leader of the largest Communist party in the Arab world, was hanged 11 hours after the close of his trial on charges of masterminding the short-lived coup in an attempt to turn Sudan into a Communist state.

Numairi's government is hunting down all Sudanese Communists, and Joseph Garang, an avowed Red and a Cabinet minister until he was arrested two days ago, was hanged Tuesday night.

Garang was minister for the South Sudan, the area where black aimists and Christians have been fighting the rule of the Northern Sudan's Arab Moslems for 15 years. The coup leaders had promised the South autonomy once order was restored in the country.

Garang, a black, published a weekly newspaper in English, the Nile Mirror, which had criticized Numairi's government for failing to make good on old promises to grant the South autonomy.

Mahjoub, at his trial denied that he had any advance knowledge of the July 19 coup and challenged the impartiality of his military judges.

"I knew there was a lot of discontent in the country and the armed forces, but I did not know about the coup in advance," Mahjoub testified.

Mahjoub's trial at the Sahagara army camp outside Khartoum was the first of the military tribunals trying accused coup leaders to be open to the press. But when a key government witness balked at testifying, the newsmen were led out. The trial lasted for several more hours behind closed doors, according to the official Sudanman Radio.

The government Arabic press today listed some 30 alleged Communists and urged anyone knowing their whereabouts to turn them in. About 400 military personnel are said to be under arrest along with an unknown number of civilians.

Numairi outlawed the 6,000-member Communist party last February because of its opposition to his plans to join the Arab Federation that Libya, Egypt and Syria have formed.

Ellsberg Called To Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg, a former Defense Department researcher who says he leaked top-secret Pentagon papers to the press, was called today before an unofficial House panel investigating significance of the war documents.

The group of 18 antiwar Democratic congressmen headed by Rep. John G. Dow of New York gave no hint what Ellsberg might testify.

Ellsberg is under federal indictment on charges of violating the Espionage Act and stealing government property. He was arrested June 28 after admitting he gave the press copies of the 47-volume Pentagon study he helped to draft.

The Pentagon papers, covering a 20-year period, outline U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Tony Russo, like Ellsberg a former employe of Rand Corp. who is involved in Defense research, told the unofficial panel Tuesday that present U.S. policy in Vietnam "hests on as many lies and as much deceit as we see in the Pentagon papers."

Russo, who has been cited for contempt of court for refusing to discuss unauthorized disclosure of the documents with a grand jury, said prison conditions in South Vietnam may be playing a part in the batle over information about U.S. prisoners of war.

"We sit here and demand information about prisoners of war in North Vietnam. Yet, even at the jail in Saigon the jailkeeper doesn't have a list of who's there," Russo said.

Russo made studies of South Vietnamese prisoners and jails in 1965-66 and 1967-68.

"The prisoners who made it as far as the jails were lucky,"" he said. "Often they were executed summarily on the battlefield or on the way to the prison.

"If the jails were overcrowded and they considered the prisoners to be dangerous, it is my understanding they were shot," he said.

Former Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, said the United States is doing in South Vietnam the same things Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini did in World War II.

The only difference, he said, is that "we do it in the name of liberation, in the name of self-determination, thereby adding hypocrisy to our sins."

Tran Vinh Dinh, former deputy South Vietnamese ambassador to Washington, said the Pentagon papers showed "the United States did not respect the principle of self-determination for the Vietnamese people."

Ward Speaks To Lions On Youth

Roy Ward, assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church in Corsicana, was guest speaker at the regular Tuesday meeting of the Corsicana Lions Club. He was assisted in his presentation by Chuck Carpenter.

Ward's subject was "Young People" and their search for what Ward described as "their search for a vital experiences with Jesus Christ". Carpenter presented a musical selection as an illustration.

Other guests were Rex Carpenter, Laurie and Betsy Hudson, Virgil Mueller and Sammy York.

There were 56 members present for the meeting presided over by Jack London, club president.

VEE Cases Declining In Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of horses sick and dead from Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis grew hardly at all Tuesday in Texas, and officials said the one million mark was near in vaccinations in the five-state area under federal quarantine.

The death count for horses rose by just three to 1,318, while the number of sick horses stayed at 1,874.

The disease, which is much milder in people, has been confirmed in 23 persons, the State Health Department said. That figure also was unchanged.

A spokesman at the federal emergency center set up here to fight VEE, said 610,678 horses have been vaccinated in Texas and the job is about 90 per cent complete.

He said 167,492 horses have been vaccinated in Oklahoma, 126,048 in Louisiana, 56,400 in Arkansas and 22,884 in New Mexico.

Spraying against mosquitoes which carry the disease was continuing, officials said. So far, 40 private and Air Force planes have sprayed 2.8 million acres and eventually 8.7 million acres will be covered before the program ends early next month.

Louisiana officials said the spraying in that state was nearly finished. About 15,000 horses remain to be vaccinated in Louisiana, they said.

In Oklahoma, vaccinations are nearly complete and in Arkansas about half the horses have been vaccinated, state officials said.

All of the confirmed cases of VEE have been found in 11 Texas counties, although Oklahoma officials were checking out three deaths. Dr. Lloyd Miller, chief of the Oklahoma animal health division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said some horse deaths at this time of year were normal.

In Washington, the agriculture department said the way has been cleared for limited commercial production of an experimental vaccine that has been used in the immunization program.

Up to now, all the vaccine has come from the Defense Department and could be obtained only in the five affected states.

Officials said the National Drug Co. already was producing the drug under Army contract, and if the vaccine passes all tests the first commercial supply should be available in four weeks.

Houston horse owners and dealers will meet tonight to protest the embargo on movement of horses in Texas. They say they should be allowed to move horses which have been vaccinated.

Toasted English Muffin Leads a Double Life

By ALICE DENHOFF

ONE OF the most satisfying ways to serve a seafood, meat or cheese salad is on a crunchy, just toasted hot English muffin. This type of salad service is going to be popular because it is a quick way to make a super sandwich without a heavy base. The salad may be made ahead and chilled but the muffins should be toasted just before serving.

Long popular as breakfast food, English muffins will prove their versatility here. If frozen muffins are used, thaw before toasting.

There is a special way to split English muffins. Pierce them all the way around with the tines of a fork. For the salad service, pierce the muffin about one-third the way down to provide two unequal pieces. Then gently pull the pierced muffin apart. Spoon the salad on the larger portion of toasted muffin and serve the smaller piece on the side.

Now for this tasty

ORIENTAL SHRIMP SALAD

- 2 cups chopped cooked shrimp
- 2 tablespoons chopped green onion
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ½ cup sliced water chestnuts
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 3 English muffins, split and toasted

Mix together first 6 ingredients. Toss with mayonnaise. Makes about 4 (½ cup) servings. Serve on toasted English muffins. And try this good:

PARTY CHICKEN SALAD

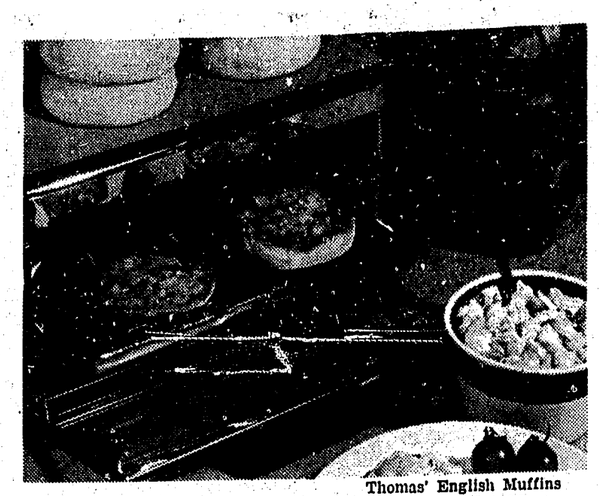

- 1½ cups chopped cooked chicken
- ¼ cup roasted slivered blanched almonds
- ¼ cup chopped celery
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup chopped unpared apple
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 4 English muffins, split and toasted

Mix together first 5 ingredients. Blend mayonnaise and lemon juice; lightly toss with chicken mixture. Makes 4 half-cup servings. Serve on muffins.

GARDEN CHEESE SALAD

- 1½ cups diced Swiss cheese (about ⅓ pound)
- ⅓ cup chopped tomato
- 3 tablespoons diced pickle relish
- 2 tablespoons chopped green onion
- ⅓ cup mayonnaise
- 4 English muffins, split and toasted

Mix together first 4 ingredients. Toss with mayonnaise. Makes 4 half-cup servings. Serve on English muffins.

Thomas' English Muffins

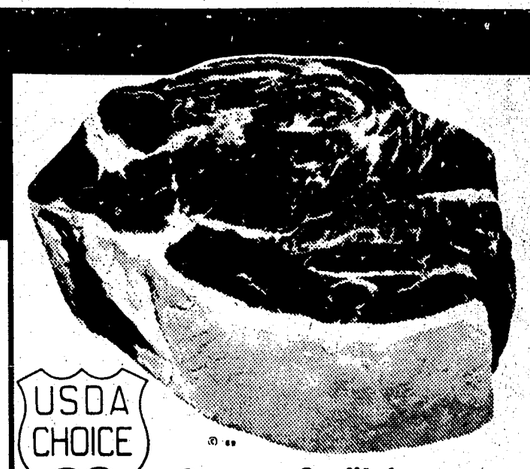

TOASTED English muffin strays from breakfast table to double as perfect vehicle for savory shrimp salad sandwich.

HERE'S HOW WE MAKE EXTRA SURE SAFEWAY BRAND FOODS YOU BUY ARE ALWAYS FRESH

Because our perishable foods (such as eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway that they are off our shelves in a matter of hours, freshness is assured. But we take no chances. The perishable foods Safeway manufactures or processes carry dates which our store people use to make certain that only fresh foods are sold. Here, for example, is how the date looks on a carton of Safeway Brand eggs:

A date like this is printed on the end of each carton. When the numbers "1-15" appeared, our employees knew the carton was not to be sold after January 15. Being positive no cartons remain on our shelves after the printed date ensures that all Safeway eggs you buy will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration.

A Taste of the Sea for Outdoor Meals

By ALICE DENHOFF

WHETHER it's the proud catch of the family fisherman or a fine fresh fish purchased at market, the nicest way to prepare it in summer is over glowing coals. Charcoal adds that extra out-of-doors flavor goodness that spells summer aromatically. It is extra delicious treated first to a few hours in an herb flavored corn oil and lemon juice marinade and then basted frequently with the same marinade during the grilling process.

Garden tomatoes grilled over the coals, or eaten as is, and a bowlful of crisp cabbage salad are just right with fish.

GRILLED FISH

- 2 garlic cloves, crushed
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons oregano leaves
- 1 teaspoon basil leaves
- 1 teaspoon thyme leaves
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup corn oil
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 3 tablespoons grated lemon rind (2 lemons)
- ⅓ cup lemon juice
- 1 (4- to 5-pound) whole fish, dressed, head removed, back fin removed

Mix first 6 ingredients. Stir in next 4 ingredients. Pour half of marinade in bottom of large baking dish. Lay fish in marinade. Spoon some marinade into fish cavity and pour remainder over fish. Marinate for at least 3 hours, turning and basting frequently.

Remove fish from marinade. Strain and save liquid. Place onion and garlic in cavity. close cavity with needle and string or with skewers. Place fish on wire rack on grill about 3 inches from source of heat. Grill 30 to 40 minutes, on each side or until fish flakes easily with fork. Turn fish once. Baste from time to time. Serves 6.

For a "go-with":

CABBAGE SALAD

- ¼ cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup corn oil
- ⅓ cup vinegar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 8 cups shredded cabbage
- Green pepper rings

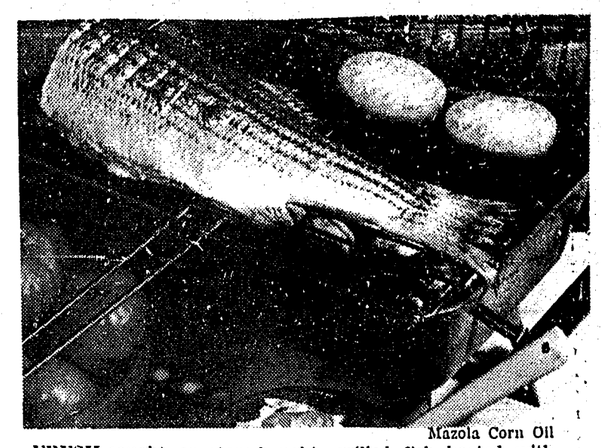

With a spoon, blend first 4 ingredients. Pour over shredded cabbage; toss well. Cover and chill thoroughly. Garnish with green pepper rings before serving. (Shredded iceberg lettuce may be used instead of cabbage.) Serve at once.

Couldn't leave the grill without something chicken-y, so:

SHISH KEBAB CHICKEN

- ½ cup corn oil
- ¼ cup light or dark corn syrup
- ¼ cup soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- 2 whole chicken breasts, boned, skinned and cut into 1½ x 1-inch pieces
- ½ pound fresh mushrooms
- 2 green peppers cut into 1-inch squares
- Pineapple chunks, drained
- Cherry tomatoes

Mix together first 6 ingredients. Pour over chicken and marinate 3 hours or overnight in refrigerator. Drain well, saving marinade. Place chicken and remaining ingredients alternately on metal skewers. Grill over hot coals or place on broiler pan and broil 4 inches from source of heat 10 to 12 minutes, basting and turning kebabs occasionally. Serves 4.

Mazola Corn Oil

FRESH-caught or store-bought, grilled fish basted with herb-oil marinade, is a ready-made call to the outdoor meal.

'White Elephant' Becomes New Asset to Community

By KIT BAUMAN
Golden Circle Editor

KERENS—When the doors of the Kerens hospital closed for the last time a few years ago, many residents wondered if the city was ending up with a modern, spacious "white elephant" on its hands.

Thanks to three local businessmen, they needn't have worried.

R. H. Hilliard, Homer Carroll and Don Paschal took over the building, renamed it the Maywood Manor Nursing Home and reopened the doors to the aged and disabled. In the four and half years since the December, 1967, opening, the home has become one of the city's finer assets.

A new wing with 25 additional beds and a covered patio was dedicated recently during an open house that saw many of the town's citizens touring the facility. With the additional room, the home now has space for 53 patients.

Classified as a Type 3 home, the home provides around-the-clock nursing care which is normally not available in other nursing homes of the same classification. Type 2 homes are primarily custodial-type facilities while Type 4's more closely resemble hospitals. Type 3's fall somewhere in between, the patients receiving more nursing care than Type 2's, yet not requiring the strict attention afforded those in Type 4's.

Margaret Burden, LVN, heads the nursing staff which comprises almost a third of the 20 employes at the home. Other workers include kitchen help, administrative personnel and janitorial service.

Most of the patients at the home have qualified as welfare recipients. Asst. Administrator Joan Kilcrease handles the applications of those who apply and sees to it that the proper papers and forms are provided. The home contracts with the welfare agencies for the care of the patients who never again receive a bill.

The majority of the patients are local people, says Mrs. Kilcrease, which helps to deter one of the major problems, that of lineliness, among the inhabitants. As she explains it, when a local resident comes to visit a patient, the individual may end up visiting with many of the others, since they all are probably old acquaintances.

"We're real fortunate here, too," says Mrs. Kilcrease, "because the local churches go out of their way to help entertain our patients."

Tuesdays, for instance, are devoted to afternoon prayer services. On Wednesdays the dining hall becomes a bingo parlor. Teen volunteers are on hand each day throughout the summer to help out with such chores as delivering mail and custodial work around the building.

Roster Check

Margaret Burden, head nurse at the Maywood Manor Nursing Home in Kerens, checks over the roster shortly before going off duty. Round-the-clock nursing care is one of the features of the home, which recently added 25 beds in a new wing of the building. The home now has room for 53 patients. (Sun Photo by Kit Bauman)

Lady Artist To Return With 'Birthday' Exhibit

Visiting Artist

Mrs. LaVera McCall, a nationally-known artist who has visited the Dawson area as a painter during the bluebonnet season, will be returning to that city for its 90th birthday celebration next weekend. Mrs. McCall will exhibit many of her paintings at the home of Lorene French Hendricks during the two-day affair.

DAWSON— Mrs. LaVora McCall, a nationally-known artist, will be making the trip from her home in Wickes, Arkansas, to this community next weekend where an exhibit of many of her paintings will be one of the highlights of the Dawson 90th birthday celebration and homecoming.

It won't be the first trip to Dawson for Mrs. McCall. She spent several days here during the blue bonnet season, painting the blue bonnet fields. Some of her canvases depicting the area will be included in the exhibit at the home of Lorene French Hendricks next weekend.

A native of Texas, Mrs. McCall earned her B.A. from the University of Texas. Upon her graduation, she began studies with several different artist, including five years with a Dutch artist, Robert Jenung, and two and a half years with Robert Shumann of Galveston.

After one year's study in the American Art School of New York, she served as an assistant art instructor in Europe and studied another year in Holland as an exchange student.

She has been the organizer and director of the Cloudcroft Art-Colony in Cloudcroft, N.M., and the Sun Carnival Art Exhibit in El Paso. Over the years she has conducted art workshops in Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and throughout Texas. Her personal collection includes more than 200 of her own canvases.

At her retirement home in the foothills of the Ozarks, she has tutored a few private students and been the instructor for two art classes under the federal government's Title One program.

Townley Family Has Reunion

The Townley family held its annual reunion recently with a picnic luncheon served at the noon hour and a gathering of members of the family from various points in Texas. Approximately 75 attended the reunion.

Included in the event were children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Townley. Those registered were:

Mr. and Mrs. James Townley and Eddy, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Townley and Judy, Mrs. Ed Townley and Linda, all of Corsicana; Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Townley and three sons, Mike, Mickey and Douglas of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. John Townley of Kingsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brim of Sweetwater, Mr. and Mrs. Joe F. Townley of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Robinson of Garland, Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Townley of Waxahachie and their four children; Mr. and Mrs. George Wanyne Townley and their three children of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Jeffy Townley and Mr. and Mrs. Toger Townley and two children, all of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Townley and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wyatt and three Children of Baytown; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Townley and two children and Mrs. Linda Estes of Hearn; John Wallace Townley of Conroe, Tommy Townley of Brenham; Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Townley, Kathy and Cindy of Waco.

Betty West Named Head Fairview Nursing Home

Mrs. Ben West has been named administrator of Fairview Nursing Home of Bonham, Texas, a 104 bed skilled nursing facility.

A native of Corsicana, Texas, Mrs. Betty West attended public schools here and also attended Laboratory Technician School at Corsicana Memorial Hospital. She is presently receiving extensive training in nursing home administrator from Grayson County College in Sherman, Texas.

Mrs. West was formerly employed by Dr. W. K. Logsdon, M. D. and Dr. O. M. Heros, M.D. here in Corsicana. For the past two years, she has been the Assistant Administrator of Fairview Nursing Home.

Mrs. West is married to Mr. Ben West, manager of the Texas Employment Commission in Bonham. The Wests are the parents of two children, Charles 16, and Patty 14. Mrs. West is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lynch of Corsicana, Texas.

Crash Victims Not Forgotten

DAWSON—Only the buzzing of summer insects and the occasional twitter of a song bird interrupt the silence in the pasture. It's a peaceful, tranquil scene, giving no hint to the observer of the tragedy that took place here barely three years ago.

On May 3, 1968, a Braniff International Electra flying through a thunderstorm over the area en route to Dallas from Houston was struck by lightning, exploded and fell to earth on this abandoned field. All 86 persons aboard Flight 352 were killed.

It remains the worst air disaster in Texas history. For days, federal aviation authorities, lawmen and newsmen made Dawson their home as they investigated the tragedy.

Obviously the tragedy left its mark upon this town. Recently, a marker to the memory of the 86 victims of the crash was unveiled in the town. It will be one of the somber attractions during this coming weekend's 90th birthday celebration here.

To those who were in Dawson on the day of tragedy, the day will never be forgotten. Several people actually witnessed the fiery flash of the lightning striking the plane.

From the Sunday, May 5, 1968, edition of The Daily Sun come the following accounts of what happened:

David White, identified as a carpenter: "I thought, 'I wonder why he's flying right into that storm,' and then there was a big flash of lightning. It looked like it went right through it (the plane). Then it burst into flames and went behind the trees."

Cloyce Floyd, now the city's postmaster: "It was just like the sun breaking through a summer storm. Then I saw what either was a wing or the fuselage between the flash and me. It was on my side of the fireball. I believe it was the main part of the plane, but I don't know."

Mrs. L. T. Rowan, who saw the plane hit the ground: "It was raining very hard, but I could see the mushroom-shaped smoke and fire."

People first arriving at the area of the crash, two miles southeast of town, at first drew back in horror at what they had found. Even veterans of World War II called it something worse than they had ever seen on the battlefield.

Consultation Center Idea Successful

Navarro county's Family Consultation Center was "started as an experimental idea that has proved to be pretty successful," s.an Fleek, executive director,

Since its inception 27 months ago, Fleek related in a "progress report" the center has had 850 individual clients under psychological and psychiatric evaluation and treatment. The center has averaged 25 to 30 "new people" a month each month since opening in the Brown Building.

"Our center represents a wide range of counselling and one of the most difficult things we've encountered is to get people to understand you don't have to be mentally ill to have a mental problem," Fleek said.

As to scope, Fleek stated it "is comprehensive-the people evaluate, we also service with professional treatment." The director said organizers realized when they began the center "we had to make it economically feasible, economically accessible to everyone, and the center had to offer the quality service you would expect of centers in urban areas." Both have been achieved. He pointed out that the fees charged on a sliding scale commensurate with income of the family seeking counseling service and proudly reported that "the average fee is about $3."

Fleek said there is a natural reluctance to get people to seek counselling at the center and the only way to reduce the apprehension they feel "is to keep everything confidential and just not talk about it (the individual's problem)."

"We are probably the first rural mental health clinic started locally. It is still a local structure with a local board," he said, pointing out that the center has financing available over the next two years in the form of annual $25,000 grants from the Moody Foundation" and after that it will be up to the local community."

Evangelist Will Speak At Services

DAWSON—Among the many natives attending this town's 90th birthday party next weekend will be evangelist Lester Roloff, a man who paid his way through college with the help of a milk cow and went on to become the founder of refuge homes throughout the country.

Roloff, who was born June 28, 1914, in Dawson, will be returning to speak at the Sunday morning service in the high school gymnasium on Aug. 1. Active as a minister for the past 38 years, he graduated from Baylor University and studied at the Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth for three years. While a student at Baylor, he paid his room and board with the proceeds from his milk cow which he took to college with him.

A resident of Corpus Christi for the past 27 years, he has started two rescue missions and is the founder of five homes for troubled people. The refuge homes are the City of Refuge in Culloden, Ga., for alcoholics and narcotic addicts; the City of Refuge for Boys at Frederick, Okla., for delinquent boys, which is currently being moved to Hattiesburg, Miss.; the Anchor Home for Boys at Katy, Texas; the Peaceful Valley Home for older persons in the Rio Grande Valley near Mission, Texas; the Lighthouse, a home for boys on the Intracoastal Canal south of Corpus Christi; and the Rebekah Home for Girls in Corpus Christi, which is home now for approximately 100 girls.

An estimated three-quarters of the girls in the Rebekah Home have had experiences with narcotics. Many of them have joined the home's choir and appear on The Family Altar, a broadcast founded by Roloff that is in its 28th year and is carried on more than 80 radio stations across the nation, in the Virgin Islands and Hawaii.

The Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises has just completed a half-million dollar installation at the Rebekah Home, including the land and equipment and two dormitories. The home is located on a 79-acre tract of farm land, just outside the city limits, where the girls raise many of the vegetables they eat.

Osbornes Hold 15th Reunion At Barry Community Center

Descendants of the late Frank and Ida Osborne met recently at the Barry Community Center for their 15th annual reunion. The 1971 get-together was dedicated to Mrs. Mattie Neese Wyatt, a daughter whose idea it was that the family should meet each fourth Sunday in June regardless of the number able to attend.

Because of illiness, neither Mrs. Wyatt nor her husband was able to attend but both were rememembered with an autographed booklet. Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt are residents of the Masonic Home in Arlington.

Following the invocation by Emmett Dosser, about 60 assorted uncles, aunts, cousins, children, grandchildren and a great-grandchild enjoyed a bountiful pot luck dinner. The only interruptions were for visiting and picture taking.

The family celebration actually started the preceding Saturday evening when 34 members had a hamburger cookout at Navarro Mills. The all-male gourmet group hosting the outdoor meal were Hugh Lynn Osborne, Jerry Sheets, James Arnold, Al Gonzales, Gary Lynn Berry, Chester Stone and Doug Meese. They also directed the lively baseball game that followed.

Many of the out of towners were guests at the Holiday Inn and were surprised and pleased to discover that the innkeeper, Carl Norvell, had a welcome for them on the marquee.

Those registering in Sunday's guestbook were Wynelle Osborne Vardemann, Velasco; Ernestine Osborne Gerald, Pasadena; Nona and Alton Osborne, Dawson; Mrs. Eppie Osborne Burns and Geraldine Osborne Green, Frost; Gladys (Neese) and Bernard Wade, Ft. Worth; Dollie and Dick Neese, Mexia; Margie (Slate) and Clyde Neese, Jackson, Miss.

Oklahoma was well represented with Phyllis (Neese) and T. J. Cherry from Ponca City, Okla.; Estelle Osborne Kirtley, daughter Nancy, Doug and the two lit'le Neeses, Betsy and Jane from Enid, Oklahoma. Also from Enid were Ysleta and Chester Stone with their three little Stones, Richard, Brian and Chet. From Shawnee, Oklahoma, were Pat and Gary Berry with Cindy and Steve. Ivy and Leon Osborne came from Irving. From Dallas, Eleanor Rae Burns, Pat and Reubine Partridge, son Steve, and a grandaughter, Stephanie Ann Leger. Also present from Dallas were newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Long. Mrs. Long is the former Maurine Burns.

Baytown visitors were Doris and Hugh Osborne, her mother, Mrs. Lela Williams, their son Kenny, their daughters and husbands, Sandy and Jerry Sheets, and Vicki and James Arnold, and baby son, James Arnold II. Sandy is a Senior "Aggiette". Present from San Antonio were Mozelle (Osborne) and Al Gonzales and children Alynn and Larry and Ann (Osborne) Patteson. From Houston were Barbara, Bill and Jack Osborne. They are the children of Lester Osborne and the late Evelyn Mitchell Osborne. Corsicana relatives included Miss Lizzie Rae Osborne, a daughter of Frank and Ida Osborne, and whose home serves as home base for many visiting relatives; Rosemary and Sam Cooper, and Margaret and Emmett Dosser.

Dawson Marks 90th With Birthday Party

DAWSON—There'll be 90 candles on this city's birthday cake next weekend as it begins a two-day birthday celebration and homecoming.

Registration of guests begins at 8 a.m. Saturday on the site of the new First National Bank on Main Street. A large tent with registration tables and free soft drinks will be set on an artificial grass carpet at the location. A local band will be on hand to entertain.

After an official welcome at 9:30 a.m. on Main Street, a tour of the area will begin. Stops along the route include a visit to the Child Care Center, the Old Dawson Home Cemetery, Springhill Cemetery, the George Washington Hill historical marker, the Marina and many houses in the town.

Throughout the day, visitors may view the "Past and Present" and "Farm and Home" exhibits in the downtown area.

Mrs. LaVora McCall, a nationally-known artist who has painted the blue bonnet fields in Dawson, will exhibit many of her paintings at the Hendrick's home.

Lunch will be at 12 noon, followed by a 2 p.m. reception at the Dawson High School of graduates.

At 4 p.m. a parade will wind its way through the city streets, followed by a catered dinner and entertainment. A charge of $1.85 per person will be charged for the dinner.

Richardson Family Meets in Corsicana

Attending the Richardson family reunion Sunday in Jester Park were the two surviving children of the late General Lafayette and Barbara Allen Foster Richardson. Mrs. Noma Ficher of Ennis and Mrs. Nancy Lyne of Waco. Their parents were born in Jasper County in 1847 and 1853, respectively.

Lunch was served at the noon hour in the park pavilion, with Kenneth Denby of Dallas giving the invocation. A prize was awarded to Mrs. Nancy Line as the oldest member of the family present. (She will be 91 years old July 17.) The youngest members present were the five months old twins, E. J. and Traci Stockweather. Their mother, the former Marilyn Richardson, is also a twin.

Recognized for having traveled farthest to attend the family gathering were Mrs. Jerry Denby and De Ann of Lewisville. The family with the most members present was that of Mrs. Ethel Richardson of Corsicana and the late J. N. Richardson.

A special award was presented to Mrs. Noma Ficher of Ennis, who has nine children and more than 100 descendants.

Those present included in addition to Mmes. Fincher and Lyne, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer (Oleta Lyne) Bates and granddaughter Nancy Harding of Waco; Mrs. Freda Lyne Rhodes of Corsicana; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richardson of Carrollton; Mr. and Mrs. Alan (Carolyn Richardson) Davis; Mrs. Skip (Marilyn Richardson) Stockweather, E. J. and Traci of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete (Ione Richardson) Denby and Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Homer (Billie Richardson) Bullock, Troy and Jill, all of Dallas; Mrs. Jerry Denby and De Ann of Lewisville; Mr. and Mrs. David Shue, Stacy and David Craig of Lancaster, Mrs. J. H. Sandefer (Dymple Richardson); Mrs. L. R. Hambrick, Mark, Michael and Gary of Corsicana; Mrs. Robert Barham (Opal Cook) of Blooming Grove; and a guest, Mrs. Kenneth Barham of Blooming Grove.

Dave Nelson of the Washington Senators went to bat 425 times before he hit his first major league home run.

Streetman HD Club Convenes

STREETMAN (Spl.) — The Streetman Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday at the City Hall with the president, Mrs. Margaret Kines, presiding.

Mrs. Vera Slade led the opening prayer, and members sang several songs. There were 21 members in attendance and one visitor, Miss Susan Bonner of Corsicana.

Mrs. Opal Bonner displayed material she had purchased for the apron project in which members will participate in preparing for the national convention in Dallas. Several members agreed to sew the aprons and others to furnish gifts.

During the social interlude, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Mona Slade and Mrs. Pat Steel, and Mrs. Pearl Anderson was recipient of the door prize.

The club will meet again on the first Tuesday in September in the City Hall at 9:30 a.m. with Mrs. W. W. Hedrick and Mrs. Lota Beauchamp as hostesses.

Chatfield School Homecoming Held

Former students and teachers of the Chatfield School held a reunion recently at the Chatfield-Tupelo Community Center. Those in attendance reported that althogh the Chatfield Public School District No. I, Navarro County, had closed in 1951, the bond of school and community loyalty and pleasant memories brought all age groups together during the reunion.

Pictures and reminiscences of the first school building revealed that it was a two-story structure erected in 1852. It was a private school, with tuition paid by parents. The lower floor was used for the school and the upper by the Masonic Lodge and later the Woodmen of the World. It became the first public school in 1887. Pictures of the original structure and later schools were displayed on a large bulletin board for the homecomers to enjoy.

As the display revealed, Chatfield was also the site of a college, The Elizabeth Institue, founded in 1898 and named for the widow of Capt. Robert Hodge. Mrs. Hodge gave five acres of land and a large sum of money for the school. College catalogs were sent out and young people came from many places to attend the boarding school, which offered a teacher's certificate. The young men wore gray military uniforms. A picture made in 1899 showed a large faculty and student body, including an elementary department for younger students.

In 1930, the institu e building burned and was replaced by a modern school building. When the school closed in 1951 after 99 years, the school plant became the Chatfield-Tupelo Community Center.

Mrs. Morris Kirby presided for the business session and program which preceded the luncheon. W. P. Thorp gave the invocation. J. M. Bickley and L. P. Hodge were recognized as former school principals and teachers present included Miss Eva Holsey, Miss Hazel Holsey and Mrs. J. P. Hodge. Thorp and Mrs. Leo Sands were recognized as having taught in other schools.

L. P. Hodge discussed the years he served as teacher and principal, from 1918 to 1925, naming the students in each year's classes. Miss Modine Gaines and W. P. Thorp were recognized as the oldest students in attendance and Kenneth Sands as the youngest.

Mrs. Joe Phillips presented a brief history of Chatfield, stating that the village was named for Champion Chatfield, the first settler, who ran an Indian trading post from 1838 to 1846, with the Caddo and Cherokee Indians as his chief customers.

Figuring prominently in the history was Capt. Robert Hodge, who came from Kentucky in 1849, bought land and moved his family there. He started a town by building a general merchandise store and giving land for a school, church, cemetery and roads.

By the time of the Civil War, Mrs. Phillips revealed, Chatfield had a horse power gin and cotton and woolen mills. Several companies of Confederate soldiers were equipped with clothing and sent from Chatfield.

Mrs. Floy Fowler Kirby, Chatfield's postmaster, displayed a framed plaque naming the successive postmasters at Chatfield dating from 1867. The plaque now hangs in the post office lobby.

A brief report on the Chatfield churches given by J. M. Hodge indicated that of the three prominent churches, Baptist, Church of Christ (later Christian) and Methodist, only the Methodist Church survived.

During the business session, John A. Gaines was elected chairman of the homecoming for next year. It was voted to make the reunion an annual event on the Saturday following July 4. The meeting was dismissed with prayer by the Rev. Robert Holloway. There were 106 who registered for the meeting, including:

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ritchey of Port Aransas; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Kelt, Genie Kelt and Margie Jones of New Market, Ala.; Erwin Burkhalter of Ida, La., Mrs. J. C. McMullan, James H. McMullan and H. M. (Buddy) McMullan of Corpus Christi; Mrs. Bob Blake of Brownwood; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bickley of Abilene; Mrs. Joe Phillips of Chandler; Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Phillips of Mesquite.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Huggins of Eustace, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Huggins of Deer Park; Mr. and Mrs. Bo Rutherford and Roy Huggins of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Johnson, C. H. Nash, and Mrs. Evelyn H. Thompson, all of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brewer and family of Irving; and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sands and Renee of Arlington.

Those attending from Dallas were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Scott, Mrs. Genie Whitfield, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Fausett, Mr. and Mrs. Haral Woodall, Carol and Cathy Woodall, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Stover, R. T. Holsey, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Murdock, Freddy Burkhalter and Sheila Burkhalter, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson.

Attending from Ennis were: Mrs. S. T. Wright, and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Denbow; from Corsicana, Mrs. Lola G. Gilbert, Miss Eva Holsey, Miss Hazel Holsey, Robby Jones, Leon Chenault, B. B. Huggins and H. Q. Gaines; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hellums of Barry; R. T. Gowan of Powell; Mrs. Pleas Mitchell of Tupelo; Mrs. Ira Cardwell and Mrs. Lilly Murphy of Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gaines, Mrs. Nell Sheets, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Kelt, Lloyd Sands, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hodge, Mrs. Ray Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hodge, Mrs. Leo Sands, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hodge, the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hodge, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Thorp, George E. Meredith, Byron Kirby, Miss Modine Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Burkhalter, Mrs. J. C. Easterling and Ed Ellington, all of Chatfield.

Gourmet Cooking Is Now the Thing

Not too long ago the average American's idea of a good meal was steak, chops or fried chicken. Now it's apt to be Beef Fondue or Coq au Vin.

The idea of flavor used to be salt, pepper and a bottle of catsup. Now it's likely to be red wine, rosemary, anise or shallots.

Interest in gourmet cooking is more than just a passing fancy, according to a study by the Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. From small Midwest towns to large coastal cities, gourmet cooking is becoming a way of life.

Gourmet cooking is the art of making good food taste better. One expert defines gourmet foods as "products with extra quality." Another says it's making the most of what you have. Some think that any gourmet meal is one that does more than just satisfy hunger pangs.

Any foreign or ethnic dish, not ordinarily in one's diet, can be gourmet. Health and organically-grown foods are also beginning to come into the gourmet picture.

Earle R. MacAusland, publisher of Gourmet, sees the trend in gourmet cooking as a sign that Americans are at last beginning to appreciate good food.

The changing lifestyles of young homemakers, increased leisure and home entertainment have contributed to the growing interest in good food. Postwar affluence sent millions of Americans abroad to study and travel; they came back eager to duplicate their new food experiences. Servicemen and their families, on overseas duty, returned with a love for foreign foods and the know-how to prepare them.

There has been an increasing urge for status, and gourmet cooking gives the homemaker something "new and different" to serve for family or guests. Seeking new dishes can be a social activity.

Americans have found, in gourmet cooking, a way to be creative, giving them the satisfaction of personal accomplishment.

Twenty years ago, gourmet or specialty foods could be found only in a handful of fancy food stores or delicatessens in large cities, mainly New York, Chicago and San Francisco. Today there is hardly a community without some kind of specialty food outlet.

Practically all supermarkets have now at least a small gourmet corner, reports the Family Economics Bureau. Larger stores may also have sections of premium quality fruits, vegetables and meats. Department stores, gift shops, boutiques and scores of fancy food shops also offer a tempting array of imported and domestic foods.

It is estimated that sale of gourmet foodstuffs ran well over $1 billion last year. And it's expanding at a rate of about 10 per cent each year.

While a real gourmet says a cookbook is merely the foundation that alows one to use imagination, sales of cookbooks are booming. In 1960, U. S. publishers brought out only 40 new cookbooks. Last year saw over 200 new volumes. The circulation of Gourmet magazine has almost doubled since 1967.

Among the 1200 cookbooks available today, there can be found books on virtually every foreign cuisine. And cookbooks devoted exclusively to pancakes, rice, beef, casseroles, chicken or souffles. There are books on gourmet cooking for one or more, for a crowd, or the American kitchen. One can be a gourmet at the grill, on a low-fat or cardiac diet, with health foods or wine.

TV cooking shows and local cooking schools have greatly aided the appreciation of good food and drink. For those to whom foreign foods once meant pizza and chop suey, the Galloping Gourmet and Julia Child have become household names.

But gourmet cooking is not only a pastime for women. Cooking schools are extremely popular with men, according to Northwestern National Life. And one gourmet shop in Philadelphia says over half its clientele is men.

Once strictly limited to the wealthy, gourmet cooking has now spread to every income group. Specialty or quality foods do bring a premium price, so it is possible to spend a lot of money on gourmet cooking. But one can also spend very little, use imagination and still turn out a gourmet meal fit for a king.

Gourmet cookware, once used only by French chefs, can now be found in many homes. Sales of gourmet cooking utensils are up as much as 25 per cent in some stores this year, despite lagging sales in other departments.

A major Chicago store says French and Scandinavian imports and such items as fondue pots and Chinese woks are "selling like hotcakes." Paella pans, fish poachers and clay bakers, at prices from $10 to $20, are selling well.

Corsicana Emergency Corps Adds New Radio

The Corsicana Emergency Corps has added another radio to its growing list of equipment. The organization now has a portable base station that can be set up anywhere the group is called to action.

Powered by a portable generator which the CEC has had for some time, the new radio station is small enough to be carried in the rescue truck and can be set up in only a few minutes.

It contains transmitters and receivers on the CEC frequency as well as the local law enforcement frequency, and also contains a receiver on the state Department of Public Safety frequency.

All that is needed is the 110-volt power source which the portable generator provides. A telescoping antenna pole is carried and when the unit is set up either in this county or others, members will have easy contact with the main base station in city hall here.

Previously, the only contact back to the city hall was via mobile radio which was not always practical, especially when operations were in low areas around Cedar Creek Lake or along the banks of the Trinity River.

The portable base station was constructed by Lloyd Huffman who is a member of the CEC and a licensed radio technician. He used portions of equipment which the CEC already had on hand.

The unit was used for the first time when the CEC was called for standby duty at Lake Navarro Mills during the Fourth of July weekend.

Marshall Weems, one of the charter members of the Corsicana Emergency Corps, has been made a permanent board member of the organization and will serve as advisor for both CEC matters as well as for the police reserve unit.

During the last session of the Texas Legislature, police reserve units across the state were officially recognized by the state after legality of such volunteer units had been questioned within the past year or so.

Locally, working with Chief of Police Don Massey, a training program is being set up whereby members of the police reserve unit will receive certification after a given number of hours of training just as regular officers receive.

CEC Chief Butch Otto appointed a committee to work with Massey on a training program for reserves, and also to orient new members of the CEC and police reserve with duties and operations. The committee is composed of Chief Otto, Sgt. Percy Varnell, Johnny Harper and Dale Johnson.

Training for new CEC members will include introduction to equipment and proper use, procedures, policies, first aid and drills.

Police reserve members will receive training in classes of their own, and in some instances, will take courses along with regular police officers.

Otto said the training program is just now being set up, and details will be outlined as they are worked out at later dates.

Eastern Star Adds Members

Three candidates were initiated into membership by Corsicana Chapter No. 118, Order of the Eastern Star, at the meeting held Tuesday evening in the Masonic Temple.

The initiates were Julia Stalter, Mary Rash and Bill Rash.

Mrs. Darlene Myers, Worthy Matron, and John Myers, Worthy Patron, presided for the meeting, which was opened in short form. Minutes of the previous meeting were ready by the secretary, Mrs. Irene Allen, and approved as read. Other business was dispensed with for the initiation service.

Afterward, invitations to other chapters were read, the sick and distressed were reported by Mrs. Opal Hoffman, and seven petitions were read for membership.

A memorial was read by the secretary, Mrs. Irene Allen, for JamesL. Lee, Worthy Grand Patron, Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star, 1942-43. The altar was draped in his memory by the conductress protem, Leona Anderson, and the associate conductress, Judy Parrish.

The chapter was led in prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. Emma Lee Patterson, and Marvin Speer, soloist, sang "I Have a Mansion Just Over the Hilltop".

Following the silver drill and the retiring march, refreshments were served in the banquet room. There were visitors from the Winnie Chapter in Ennis, the Bellmeade Chapter, Dawson Chapter, and Lincoln Chapter, Lincoln, Ark.

Local Schools Involved

Public Schools To Begin Drug Education

Beginning with this school year, Corsicana Rotarians were told Wednesday, public schools in Texas must begin teaching drug education in grades 5 through 12.

Frank Prindle, assistant principal of Collins Middle School, who has been designated by Superintendent Joe Seale, as drug education coordinator for the Corsicana school system, was the program speaker.

Prindle related the bill was passed in 1969 by the Texas Legislature requiring schools to teach the dangers of drugs, drug abuse and crime but as yet the Legislature has not provided any funds toward implementing the program. The Texas Education Agency and the state's local school systems began devising their own curriculum program in 1970-71, in preparation for beginning the teaching program with opening of the September school year.

"For each grade level we have to have written guidelines," Prindle said, and since there were none, this necessitated developing guidelines locally. Toward this objective, Prindle requested each elementary, middle and high school principal to nominate teachers to help in the writing. This involved about 25 teachers, and Prindle said he had learned from that experience "that was too many" trying to arrive at a consensus.

"There will be no separate course called Drug Education," he was quick to point out, saying that instead teachers in all classes will utilize opportunities to "inject" educational information by example, or comment. As an example, he noted that during a class in Government, a teacher might inject information about laws dealing with drug use; in health and biology classes, information would be imparted about the harm resulting from use of drugs, etc.

At this point, Prindle admitted that teachers are apprehensive "that the kids will know more about this than we do, but we fear the kids also have a lot of misinformation."

By law now, Prindle observed "we must teach the kids the dangers, but we aren't going to scare them to death.....Besides it being the law, we have a moral obligation to teach drug education."

He expressed his conviction that "information alone isn't the solution" and the "sad thing about it is that they (youths) know the risks they take "when they take pills to get "high" or sniff fumes from gasoline, glue or aerosol spray cans.

As a direct warning to Rotarian-parents, Prindle observed "the greatest potential source of dangerous drugs for young people to use is on your own medicine cabinet shelf."

Gene Sears introduced the speaker for absent Program Chairman Lee Pennington.

Vice President Leland Cook presided and welcomed as guests Travis Fullwood, son of Rotarian P. D. Fullwood, and the Fullwoods' house guest, Makoto (Paul) Sukagawa, 20, Hyogo, Japan, a foreign exchange student from Toykio's Sophia University.
